Both classes include the WA State Amendments

Day 1 – Monday, September 25, 2023

Basic Overview of the International Building Code – Mary Dickson

.6 PP CEU's

This one-day class will provide a general overview and update of the International Building Code. Topics will include Occupancy Type, Construction Types, how to determine Occupancy load, number of exits, egress, allowable area, accessory and incidental use areas and fire sprinkler provisions. Participants in this class will be able to identify occupancies, determine the occupant load and exit requirements for various building types. Students will have an understanding of when and where the various types of construction are used and why.

Please bring a copy of the 2018 or 2021 International Building Code for reference during the class, State Amendments are not required. This class is intended for students with an entry-level to intermediate understanding of the code.

Day 2 – Tuesday, September 26, 2023

Basic Overview of the International Residential Code – Mary Dickson

.6 PP CEU's

This one-day class will provide a general overview and update of the International Residential Code. Topics will include basic mechanical, electrical, and plumbing provisions of the code. Students will be able to correctly identify and read structural tables for both floor and roof construction. Please bring a copy of the 2018 or 2021 International Residential Code for reference during the class, State Amendments are not required. This class is intended for students with an entry-level to intermediate understanding of the code.

Mary Dickson: Prior to retiring, Mary had been the Building Official for the City of Litchfield Park, Arizona since 2017. Prior to that position, she served as the Building Official/Fire Marshal for the City of El Mirage, Arizona for 10 years and Senior Plans Examiner for the City of Avondale, Arizona for 9 years. Mary also does free-lance blueprint drawing of custom homes and remodels and has over 500 projects in 7 states. Before finding her niche in Building Safety, she taught at the high school and junior college level for 12 years, teaching classes in architecture, drafting, blueprint reading and computer aided design (CAD). She holds a Bachelor of Science degree in Career and Technology Education and has earned ICC certifications in Residential & Commercial Plan Review, Building and Fire Inspections, and others including Certified Building Official. Mary has taught classes throughout the U.S. on IBC and IRC Overview, Residential Blue-Print Reading for Permit Techs, Front Counter Plan Review, Property Maintenance Code, and Hoarding Issues for Building and Code Enforcement.
